The first offerings from Mike Vick's new company, called V7, play it about as safe as possible. Slogans adorning his new apparel steer well clear of anything controversial with sayings like, "It's not how you start. It's how you finish," seemingly modeled after Vick's personal experiences. "We wanted to do something different. We wanted to be as innovative as we could," Vick told some young fans at the first look. {Page 15}

Who'll take the gamble?

Bidders with $70M can now get in on action for Phily's second casino
State gaming officials accepting bids, lawmakers yet to weigh in

Let the scramble begin for Philadelphia's second gaming hall.

The state gaming board announced yesterday that it would begin accepting applications for the license which it yanked from the stalled Foxwoods project in December 2010. State lawmakers had discussed allowing the license to be rebid statewide, but no action has been taken.

The board's decision does not rule out a possible change by legislators, but will at least start the process. A number of high-profile suitors are expected to apply, including developer Bart Blatstein, Parkway Corp. President Robert Zuritsky and real estate magnate Don Peebles. Business mogul Donald Trump applied for a license during the first bidding in 2006, but it is unclear if he plans to submit another application.

Mayor Michael Nutter, who initially opposed casinos but was one of many elected officials who lobbied to keep the second license in Philadelphia, applauded the decision, arguing that it would provide much-needed revenue for schools and create thousands of jobs.

Some critics claim the market for casinos in southeastern Pennsylvania is oversaturated with SugarHouse, nearby Parx Casino in Bensalem and Harrah's Philadelphia in Chester. SugarHouse, however, led the state's 11 casinos in gross revenue per slot machine in May.

BONI

"I think the picture is better than what people were forecasting before," said Stephen Mullin, former city commerce director and current senior vice president for Econsult Corp., which is conducting an economic impact study for Blatstein.

Casino opponents said the move will further perpetuate gambling addiction in the region.

"It's a predatory industry and there's more prey to be had," said Paul Boni, a board member of Stop Predatory Gambling, a national advocacy group.

Winner still about year away

The gaming board will accept applications through Nov. 15 and any decision on a winning bid could take nine to 12 months, according to board chairman William Ryan Jr.

The state law that authorized casinos in 2004 called for Philadelphia to have two licenses. In 2006, the gaming board awarded the licenses to SugarHouse Casino, which opened in September 2010, and the Foxwoods project proposed for Columbus Boulevard near Reed Street in South Philadelphia, which never materialized due to a series of financial problems.

Gaming board spokesman Doug Harbach said there will be public hearings in Philadelphia before the license is awarded.

Alicia Keys to sing Obama's praise in Philly next week

Alicia Keys will be here Monday for an Obama campaign event to discuss the impact of the upcoming election's outcome on women's issues.

The Grammy award-winner will join senior Obama administration adviser Valerie Jarrett and Democratic National Committee Chair Debbie Wasserman Schultz to host the city's "Women Vote 2012 Summit" at the Pennsylvania Convention Center. It is free and open to the public.

34%
A recent Kaiser Family Foundation poll revealed that 34 percent more women trust Obama over opponent Mitt Romney to look out for their interests when it comes to reproductive health

"In his three years in office, President Obama has been an advocate for us since day one — from making health care more accessible and affordable to ensuring women can fight for equal pay for an equal day's work," Keys said in a statement.

The Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act extending the statute of limitations for pay discrimination lawsuits was the first bill Obama signed into law when elected, particularly salient in Pennsylvania, as a typical female full-time worker here makes nearly $460,000 less during her career than a man at the same job, according to the campaign.

Romney has promised to "get rid of" Planned Parenthood and called the pro-choice Roe v. Wade ruling "one of the darkest moments in Supreme Court history." METRO/AW

Crossbow pulled in road rage attack

Police have arrested a man for allegedly driving erratically, then threatening another motorist with a crossbow during a road rage outburst.

According to investigators, officers responded to a ShopRite parking lot at Frankford Avenue and Knorr Street in Mayfair for a report of a person with a weapon around 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. They arrested Kenneth Butterworth, 44, of the 3400 block of Friendship Street a short time later.

A man told them that while he was driving west on Harbison Avenue, he saw a man, later identified as Butterworth, at the wheel of a Dodge Stratus that was weaving in and out of traffic.

The man said he changed lanes to the left of the Dodge, passed it and changed back to the right lane in front of the car.

The victim told investigators that Butterworth then changed to the left lane, pulled up beside him and pointed a crossbow at him from his window. The man called 911 and followed the Dodge to the parking lot, where he said Butterworth again pointed the crossbow at him. He fled the area.

▶ Butterworth

Arriving officers stopped a gold Dodge Stratus about a half mile away from the parking lot on the 4000 block of Cottman Avenue. The victim met police there and positively identified both Butterworth and the crossbow he allegedly possessed.

Police recovered the weapon, which they said was loaded with one arrow.

Butterworth is charged with assault, reckless endangerment and possession of an instrument of crime, according to court documents. He was arraigned and bail was set at $35,000.

Butterworth was sentenced in 2006 to six to 23 months in prison and one year's probation after pleading guilty to theft, court documents show. He was sentenced again in 2007 and 2009, each time to nine to 23 months in jail, for violating his probation on that charge.

According to a Facebook page purporting to belong to the suspect, his interests include tactical shooting, hiking and camping, blowgun shooting, fishing and archery.

Theft of S. Philly man's identity totals $100K

SOUTH PHILADELPHIA. Police released surveillance video yesterday of three men who allegedly stole a 68-year-old city man's identity and used it to open multiple fake credit card accounts between January and May.

Investigators are looking for the suspects, who they say used the accounts to make purchases at Home Depot, Target and Macy's totaling over $100,000.

One suspect is described as a five-foot-ten, 190-pound black man between 40 and 50 years old with a beard and glasses. The second is of an unknown race and was last seen wearing a tan hat and glasses, while the third is an Asian man with black hair. In the video, the men can be seen leaving Home Depot after one alleged fraudulent purchase in a white pickup truck with a ladder rack. They appear to be traveling with a small child. METRO

Baby girl grazed by bullet

STRAWBERRY MANSION. A two-year-old was injured Tuesday night in a double shooting that also left a man in critical condition.

Police said the unidentified man, 19, was walking with the baby girl on the 2500 block of North 29th Street when gunfire erupted.

Officers responding to a report of a shooting shortly after 10 p.m. found the man with a gunshot wound to the back of his head. He is in extremely critical condition at Temple University Hospital.

The child suffered a graze wound to her arm. She is in stable condition at St. Christopher's Hospital. Police said she is not the man's daughter. Their relationship is unclear.

Neither a motive nor any suspects have been determined, investigators said. METRO/AW

Attacker demands 'money,' beats bedridden, elderly woman

NORTHEAST PHILADELPHIA. An elderly, bedridden woman was viciously assaulted during a home invasion robbery in the Rhawnhurst section early yesterday, police said.

The victim, 86, told investigators that she was sleeping in her residence at the Meadowview Apartments on the 8100 block of Algon Avenue when, shortly before 1:30 a.m., she was awakened by an unknown man at her bedside.

While the woman was unable to describe her attacker, she told police she heard him say "money." When she began to scream, he beat her.

The victim is receiving treatment at Frankford Hospital-Torresdale for a fractured orbital socket and cheek lacerations. Authorities said she is in stable condition.

It is unclear what, if anything, was taken from her home during the incident. METRO/AW

Report on Sandusky to shake up Happy Valley

An investigation into Penn State University's role in the Jerry Sandusky child sex abuse scandal will be published today, though after leaked emails during the past month, the family of late football coach Joe Paterno has already questioned its fairness and confidentiality.

The head of the eight-month probe, former FBI Director Louis Freeh, said the report would be published online at 9 a.m. this morning and he will hold a news briefing at 10 a.m. in Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania State University's trustees hired Freeh and his law firm to investigate the school's handling of explosive allegations involving Sandusky, a former assistant coach in the high-powered football program, and university officials.

Sandusky, 68, was convicted last month of 45 counts of child molestation involving 10 boys.

The charges involving Sandusky prompted the firing in November of university President Graham Spanier and head coach Paterno, who won more games than any other major college football coach. Paterno died of lung cancer in January at age 85.

At the heart of the Freeh probe is how Paterno and other Penn State officials reacted to allegations by Mike McQueary, a graduate assistant. McQueary told them in 2001 he had seen Sandusky in a sexual position with a boy in a football locker room, but neither police nor children's services were informed.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Paterno's family pre-emptively responded to the report.

Former Athletic Director Tim Curley and Gary Schultz, a former university vice president, face charges of perjury and failure to report suspected abuse stemming from the alleged cover-up.

CNN reported last month that emails among Spanier, Curley and Schultz showed they feared they could be "vulnerable" for failing to report the incident.

The online publication will be the first time anyone outside the probe has seen the report, including Penn State trustees, Freeh said in an emailed statement. REUTERS

University to respond

The trustees will meet later today and tomorrow at the school's Scranton campus. The university said it would respond to the report once it was reviewed. A court in Harrisburg held a scheduling conference for Curley and Schultz's trial yesterday.

'Torrent of leaks'

Reacting to the upcoming release, Paterno's family released a statement that read in part: "Unfortunately, recent events have raised questions about the fairness and confidentiality of the investigative process."

The probe had been marked by "a virtual torrent of leaks," with the release of "select emails intended to smear Joe Paterno and other former Penn State officials," the family said in a statement.

An email, written by Curley and provided to CNN, appeared to suggest that Paterno had urged his colleagues not to report the incident to Sandusky's charity or to the Department of Public Welfare.

The Paternos denied that Joe Paterno had told Curley to cover up the incident. They said they welcomed meeting with Freeh to review the findings and respond to them. REUTERS

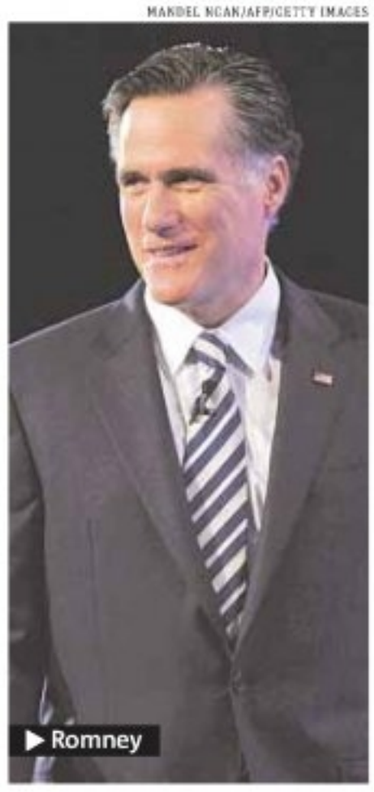
Obama backed by single people, Romney by married couples

JEWEL SAMAD/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

MANDEL NGAN/AFP/GETTY IMAGES



President Barack Obama's slim lead over Republican rival Mitt Romney in the White House race is fueled by a broad marriage gap, with Obama enjoying a big advantage among single voters — particularly women, a Quinnipiac University poll found yesterday.

Obama leads among single voters by 54 percent to 34 percent, while married voters back Romney 51 percent to 38 percent, the poll found.

Obama has a huge advantage with single women, 60 percent to 31 percent, while Romney leads among married women 49 percent to 42 percent. Romney leads by 19 percentage points among married men, and Obama leads by 9 points among single men.

The poll showed Obama with an overall 3-point national edge on Romney, 46 percent to 43 percent, four months before the November 6 election.

"Although much has been made about the gender gap and how Obama's lead among women fuels his campaign, the marriage gap is actually larger and more telling," said Quinnipiac pollster Peter Brown.

"Married people are more likely to be older, more financially secure and more socially conservative than unmarried voters," he said. "Married voters are more likely to focus on the economy and health care, while single voters are more focused on issues such as gay rights and reproductive issues."

Romney booed at NAACP convention

HOUSTON. Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney was booed by an African-American crowd yesterday when he told them he would eliminate President Barack Obama's signature policy achievement, the U.S. health care overhaul.

Romney's conservative message did not go down very well at the annual convention of the NAACP, a civil rights organization whose African-American members are among Obama's strongest supporters.

The reaction was not uniformly negative. Romney received a standing ovation at the end and there were numerous instances of applause throughout the speech. REUTERS

Barker staying grounded

▶ Barker will be sticking to the road this time out.

Four years after surviving a deadly plane crash, Travis Barker is still understandably hesitant to fly, and his travel restrictions are making the latest Blink-182 tour a little difficult.

"This will be the big tour that supports the album in Europe. Mind you, I'm not flying, so it's hard to say what the band could do or what its potential is, because I can't really get everywhere," the drummer tells Red Bulletin magazine.

Barker is, however, planning to give it another go if the tour takes them down under. "I'm contemplating getting knocked out and getting on a plane to Australia. I want to overcome that eventually," he says. "When I do, I think it's going to be Qantas. They never had a crash, never had a fatality — knock on wood. It's something I want to overcome."

We salute you, Travis! Take care and treat yourself to some premium tranquilizers — you could totally afford to hire Ira Glass to talk about baby kangaroos for the entire 20 hours.

Stonestreet's other family

"Modern Family" star Eric Stonestreet found his superpampered dog Coleman at an animal shelter in 2000, although things didn't start out so smoothly. "He scratched me, then bit my hand," he tells People of the beagle mix, who has his own Twitter account (reserve your judgment — more than 3,000 of you people follow him). "I knew I had to take him home, and he has been my best friend ever since."

Perhaps too soon, Sheen?

Charlie Sheen was on hand Tuesday evening to honor Slash, who received a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Sheen didn't, however, have kind words for other members of Guns N' Roses.

"It's quite fitting that Slash is getting a star on the very street Axl Rose will one day be sleeping on," he said.

Well played, Charlie — just make sure you don't pass out on Hollywood Boulevard anytime soon.

What's missing here?

"Jersey Shore" just wrapped up taping its final season, but The Situation is still hoping to capitalize on his tanned-and-toned fame. The first outlets of his "GTL" salons — equipped with, yes, gyms, tanning beds and laundromats — are set to open in Miami and New York, reports In Touch.

Are we missing something, or is there no bar? This guy was probably our last hope for happy hour on the elliptical — JWoww babe, don't let the dream die.

Talking points

Tom Cruise's exes are teaming up

Katie Holmes reportedly had some high-profile sounding boards as she planned her exit from her marriage to Tom Cruise — including Cruise's second ex-wife, Nicole Kidman, according to Us Weekly. "They've spoken over the last few weeks," a source says. "Nicole has been supportive, saying she's been through it too and to hang in there. Nicole offered her support and help." The two first became acquainted when Holmes married Cruise in 2006. "She has been a private friend not many people know about," the source explains. So how did Holmes reach out to Kidman on the sly? The L.A. Times reports that Holmes used a disposable cell phone provided by a friend to plot her divorce filing without Cruise's camp catching on.

Adele in baby mode

Adele announced she was pregnant late last month, with new rumors following that she's also engaged to the baby's father, Simon Konecki. Well, now sources tell Heatworld.com that the British singer is actually much farther along in her pregnancy than previously thought — and is due in September. "Adele has barely left the house in recent months, so she could keep this to herself for as long as possible," the source says. "She stopped exercising a few months ago, and since then it's been all about the baby." The source adds that the advanced pregnancy is the reason Adele opted to not fly to the U.S. in May for the Billboard Music Awards, despite winning a dozen trophies that night.

Magic is gone for 'Potter' co-stars

After more than a year of being engaged, the wedding's apparently off for "Harry Potter" co-stars Jamie Campbell Bower and Bonnie Wright, according to Us Weekly. "Bonnie and Jamie split a while ago," a source says of the pair. "It was amicable, but things had not been going right for some time. It's sad." The pair first acknowledged their romance in February 2010, and he popped the question in April 2011. Bower seems to be moving on, though, as on Monday he was spotted in Toronto holding hands with his "The Mortal Instruments" co-star, Lily Collins.

When are you exclusive?

There are a few ways to figure out when you've gotten yourself into boyfriend/girlfriend territory

Segel

Williams

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

From recent reports it seems that actors Michelle Williams and Jason Segel have quietly crossed that line between playing with the idea of being exclusive and committing to being a couple. At a premiere party to celebrate Segel's film "The Five-Year Engagement," they were seen holding hands and gazing into each other's eyes. They are both known for taking their time when it comes to romance. It raises the question: How does a hopeful pair get from one point to the next? When do you actually become an exclusive couple?

Shrink Wrap

DR. JANE GREER

HEALTH.METRO.US

One of my patients was pondering this recently, and she asked me when it is appropriate to have the conversation and negotiate the terms of becoming a committed couple. I told her that in order to gauge that, you want to look at what is going on between the two of you.

Being exclusive is the exciting hill everyone wants to get over in a new, promising relationship. And there will be definite signs that you are successfully making that climb. There is the obvious: If you begin to refer to each other, and to introduce each other, as boyfriend and girlfriend. Other clues are when you start to show your affection in public by holding hands and touching, making the statement that you belong together, or the biggie: You start saying "I love you." And the best indication of all is that you no longer want to date other people or even leave that door open for the possibility. When it becomes clear that you are focusing your energy and heart on that one person, and that it is a mutual choice, that is a good time to check in to determine if you are now being exclusive.

Once you decide you are each other's one and only, you will be able to usher in the emotional and sexual trust and safety that most people crave. You want "the talk" my patient was referring to — and even more importantly, you want the move toward steady dating. You want to acknowledge what is already happening between the two of you rather than be in a negotiation to put something in place the way it seems to be for Michelle and Jason.

Government should help those trying to help themselves

RE: "YOU'LL MISS MINIMUM WAGE WHEN ROBOTS ARRIVE": This is to Daniel Green: With all of your wisdom, I hope you also realize that there is a generation of 20-somethings drowning in tens of thousands of dollars of crippling student loan debt and that higher education isn't always an option. Maybe instead of criticizing those that do work those 2-3 part-time jobs, you should be thankful you don't have to worry about minimum wage pay to begin with — at least that's what it sounds like from the pedestal you're preaching off of. We live in a society where these jobs are a gift to the underpaid and underemployed — or someone like myself, trying to pay for college. The 10-cent raise every year probably isn't gonna break the big business piggy bank.

KRISTI SENAT VIA E-MAIL

Don't do the climb if you can't treat the Lyme

This is just friendly feedback: Lyme disease is caused by a bacteria, not a virus, and it's called Borrelia burgdorferi. It's from the same family of bacteria as syphilis. Bacteria are treated with antibiotics, not viruses. Antibiotics do not work on bacteria.

ABDEL BRAHIMI, MD, VIA E-MAIL

Blame game played in the past — and future, too!

RE: "CLINTON AND DEMS SOW SEEDS OF FAILURE": Sorry, but nearly everything Raymond Collins mentions is either incorrect or simply irrelevant to the original point. Yes, banking deregulation began under Clinton — but it was under Bush's watch (and his encouragement) that Wall Street created and pursued the labyrinthine schemes that resulted in the 2008 meltdown. The subprime mortgage market (another Bush creation) was utterly tangential to the crisis. Further, I remind everyone of Senator Mitch McConnell's on-record statement of the Republican's single priority: making Obama a one-term president. Only a fool could expect assistance from a party of such ideologues, especially as they now oppose policies that they previously advocated.

JOSEPH CONNELL VIA E-MAIL

The persistence of sheets in sheep's clothing

The KKK is not a civic-minded group. It is a gang whose sole purpose is to hurt people — not help people. The State of Georgia was absolutely in the right not to allow them to post a sign. It has nothing to do with freedom of speech or any of their rights as individuals. The state does not support street gangs anymore than a gang in sheep's clothing, which is what this KKK group is. The most shocking part about this is — they still exist?

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. If you're smart, you won't gamble with friends, even for small stakes. A big misunderstanding could arise over something rather petty.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Devote your time and attention to situations that could make or save you money. Time and attention will yield large profits down the line.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Provided you don't tip your hand prematurely, a significant objective can be achieved. Remember the competitors lurking in the wings who would love to know your plans.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Give no credence to advice offered you by someone whom you know doesn't have a tight handle on what you're doing. This person's intentions may be good, but his or her counsel isn't.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. When it comes to a partnership arrangement, let your cohort do all the talking. There is a strong chance your two cents' worth could be the wrong thing at the wrong time.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. The possibilities for achieving your ambitions and objectives look pretty good, even though you might have to contend with some petty frustrations on your road to victory.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Although you're likely to be painfully aware of the flaws in others, it won't serve any purpose to call attention to them. Work on your own flaws.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. You might find it necessary to make a small concession in a commercial matter in order to reap some larger gains. You'll understand that nothing is ever optimal.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If the work you're doing requires extreme diligence, have another double-check your efforts, especially details that have to be put in writing. You could easily miss a small oversight.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Don't settle for sticker price when you're out shopping for something that is more money than you want to pay. With a little poking around, you'll find a good substitute at a lower price.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. One of your greatest obstacles is allowing self-defeating thoughts to overwhelm your thinking. You can control anything you set your mind to, including avoiding all the negatives.

Vick unveils clothing line, fans go wild

PAIGE OZAROSKI/METRO

The fans started lining up around 9 a.m. yesterday at Modell's on Cottman Avenue. They were there to see Mike Vick introduce his new clothing line. Even though they were instructed that Vick wouldn't be posing for photos, they couldn't resist.

They shouted. They screamed. They pleaded. And when a store representative pointed to the woman who bought the first T-shirt off the rack, Vick immediately pulled her aside for an intimate photo op.

"I love you, Mike," she shouted.

"I love you, too," Vick shouted back.

Vick was there to showcase his V7 signature collection, a sports apparel line that was conceived and designed by the Eagles quarterback. The full V7 line — which is being sold exclusively at Modell's — will be unveiled July 22 on the store's website, with a fall collection due out in November. Part of the sales will benefit the Boys & Girls Club of Philadelphia.

"I don't want to reveal too much," Vick said. "The most important thing right now is to get this out there to my fans and, as time goes on, I'm going to continue to keep my eyes on the prize, which is having success on the football field. I think that correlates to my off-the-field success — just for my legacy, for my brand. I think this is an awesome opportunity for me."

▶ Vick signs an autograph while wearing a shirt from his V7 collection — with daughter, London, looking on.

Quoted

"We were blown away. I didn't even know that he knew this much about apparel."

MITCHELL MODELL, CEO MODELL'S

Of course, re-establishing Vick's personal brand has been a mission for No. 7 since being released from prison in May 2009. It was a long climb, but he seems to be back at the top of the mountain. Vick signed an endorsement deal with Nike last summer and recently got married to longtime girlfriend Kijafa Frink. According to The Wall Street Journal, Vick has restored his brand 65 to 75 percent since leaving prison.

"It's amazing to be here," said Frink, who stuck by Vick while he was in prison. "We went through a few rough years in our lives so to even be here today, and to have a clothing line, it's something that we never thought about four years ago and here it is. I'm extremely proud of him. This is the most excited I've seen him about anything since coming back to football."

Report: Howard not in Nets mix

Brooklyn has ended its hot pursuit of Dwight Howard, according to ESPN and Yahoo! Sports.

The Nets had been trying hard to finalize a deal for the All-Star center, but talks fizzled. Instead, they inked Brook Lopez to a $60-million contract.

The Lakers are still thought to be in the mix to land Howard's services.

Pitchers do take hitting seriously ... no, really

Worley's World

AS TOLD TO ED CONDRAN

A WEEKLY DIARY

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Worley is 2-for-3 in bunting situations this season.

At this time last year, the Phillies were riding such a wave of success that quite a bit of attention was paid to something as trivial as the pitchers' batting competition.

There is a friendly battle this season among the starters, but little has been made of it since the bottom-feeding Phillies are playing at a pathetic .425 clip at the All-Star break.

"We have [a hitting competition] this year, but I don't know if it's a priority for us right now," Worley said.

Worley, much like moundmates Cole Hamels and Cliff Lee, has a decent swing. Hamels is hitting .278 — he could start when he's not pitching — and Lee is batting .214. Worley has yet to get a hit.

"I've made contact but right now I'm not thinking about that," Worley said. "Hits are nice for me and the other pitchers, but right now all I care about is getting wins. That takes precedence over hits. My job is ultimately to keep the team in the game and go as deep as I can. If I need to get a bunt down, I need to get it down. It's part of the game."

So far, so good. Worley is on the plus-side when it comes to successful bunts.

"I'm 2-for-3 in bunting situations. I'm doing all right bunting, but I need to be doing all right in every phase of the game. I can hit the ball hard, but I can also pitch deep into games. I have to do more of that and win games for this team with my arm. But I do admit that I enjoy hitting.

"You take things seriously here when you're up to bat, even if you're a pitcher. (Laughs) If you go up there and not look like you're going to hit, you're going to get punched out. So I get in there and go for it. That's how I am in the box and on the mound. I want to do my job at all times to help this team win."

▶ Wright still appears to be headed to the Sixers despite the emergence of a third team. Team has yet to confirm deal.

Wright joins Sixers as deal altered

Swingman still headed to Philly ◗ Jack to Warriors ◗ Bavcic to N.O.

It's a swinging good time at Sixers camp.

The team reportedly acquired another wing player yesterday when it traded for Golden State's Dorell Wright. The Sixers haven't confirmed the deal yet. The 6-foot-9 swingman comes to Philadelphia as part of a three-team swap that will send Jarrett Jack to the Warriors and the rights to Edin Bavcic to New Orleans. Bavcic was a second-round pick in 2006.

Wright averaged 10.3 points last season, one year after putting up 16.4 per game and leading the NBA in 3-pointers made (194). He is due about $4 million next season.

The move was first reported on Tuesday as a straight swap between the Sixers and Warriors. New Orleans got involved yesterday. METRO

▶ The Sixers re-signed F Lavoy Allen to a two-year deal worth a reported $6 million. The former Temple standout started 15 games last season and averaged 4.1 points and 4.2 rebounds.

▶ Barkley

Two NBA superstars — with the egos to match — are debating the greatness of their respective Olympic teams.

Lakers star — and the pride of Lower Merion — Kobe Bryant recently said he thought the 2012 U.S. basketball team could beat the 1992 Dream Team.

"I don't know. It'd be a tough one, but I think we'd pull it out," Bryant told Yahoo! Sports.

Yesterday, former Sixers great Charles Barkley was posed the same question on 97.5 The Fanatic. Predictably, he picked his squad to reign supreme by double digits.

"Their point guards weren't going to beat us. That's a no-brainer," Barkey told the radio station. "Other than Kobe, LeBron and Kevin Durant, I don't think anybody else on that team makes our team." METRO
